

Mitchell Assailed For Orders Issued During World War

Army Turns Tables Upon Accuser and Charges Him With Poor Judgment in Battle.

SAYS HE APPROVED "FLYING COFFINS"

Another Flareup Marks Court-martial When Reid Is Charged With Attack on Witness.

Washington, December 9.—The army turned the tables on Colonel William Mitchell Wednesday, and laid on his doorstep direct criticisms of his personal command during the world war.

Answering the court-martial of officer's charge that aviators were ordered to fly unnecessarily under extra hazardous conditions, the army, through Captain R. G. Rath, reserve officer and Los Angeles broker, told Mitchell's jurors that Mitchell, during the San Mihel world war offensive had ordered a flying group trained for day flying to make a night sortie with disastrous results.

Attack on Mitchell. Again it attacked the Mitchell ramparts with Major General Mason M. Patrick, head of the army air service. Patrick testified that Mitchell had approved the army keeping De Havilland planes, which he has branded as "flying coffins."

Interpreting this testimony occurred another of the many flareups which have marked the court-martial proceedings. Brigadier General King, author of the "damn rot" incident which earlier threatened his place on the court, attacked the defense cross-examination of Captain Rath after Rath had refuted Mitchell's charge that anti-aircraft gunfire was ineffective and was scoffed at by aviators.

King interpreted Rath's examination as an insinuation that Rath was cowardly. "Men do things from a sense of duty though they may be afraid, but that is not cowardice, and I protest against this witness being questioned in that way."

Reid denied he was insinuating Rath was a coward. "Any man," he said, "who does a thing he is afraid of, is a good soldier and that is the point I am making."

Asked to Take Time. Major General Howze, president of the court, interrupted. He cautioned Rath to take his time in answering Reid's questions.

"In no way allow your impulses to carry you away," he warned the witness. King's protest followed testimony.

WATER RATE HIKE MOVE PROTESTED

Trades Federation Adopts Resolution Opposing Increase in Rates—Debate Is Spirited.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades Wednesday night adopted a resolution opposing an increase in water rates of the city for any purpose whatever.

The resolution was introduced by the executive board and was concurred in after it was amended by striking from the measure a protest against a proposal to permit lowering of the tax assessment on real and personal property. The amendment was made after a spirited debate in which many members took part.

The resolution adopted follows: "Recognizing the principle that municipal ownership of a public utility implies service at cost rather than for profit, and

GEORGIA LAND BOOM IS SEEN BY REALTORS

Atmosphere of Universal Confidence of Coming 'Big Time' for State Features Convention.

MANY SPEAKERS ARE ON PROGRAM

Albany, Waycross and Savannah in Three-Cornered Race for Next Year's Session.

Featured by an atmosphere of universal confidence of an unprecedented boom in the sale of lands and other properties in the state, 200 members of the Georgia Real Estate Board Wednesday opened their two-day annual convention at the Ansley hotel.

The first day's program concluded with a banquet at the Capital City club.

Chief among subjects discussed by the realtors in their informal group gatherings and luncheon conversations was the announcement that Sears-Roebuck & company will erect a huge mail order and retail store in Atlanta.

The deal with the Sears-Roebuck people, closed by R. R. Otis, of Atlanta, was taken by the real estate men as one of the best evidences of the fact that eyes of the nation are turning to the southeast for investments.

Mr. Otis was introduced at the midday luncheon in the Ansley's main dining room as the real estate operator who handled the deal, and was given hearty applause by his fellow realtors.

Mayor Walter A. Sims, striking a keynote with the fact that real estate acts as a business barometer in Atlanta, welcomed the realtors to this city, together with "Cousin Fred" Houser, of the Atlanta tourist and convention bureau.

Bids for Convention. There are three bids for the 1926 convention of the state board, from Albany, Waycross and Savannah.

Albany has 30 representatives at the convention who are exerting every effort to swing the next convention here.

Albany delegates are wearing broad red ribbons bearing the inscription: "Albany, where money grows on trees," with reference to Albany's pecan industry, the ribbons each having pecans strung on them.

Albert S. Adams, president of the Atlanta board, also extended welcome to the visitors, while the response to the welcome addresses was made by James B. League, of Augusta.

Reports of Joseph Flournoy, of Columbus, state president; W. G. Morton, of Columbus, state secretary, and M. J. Ellis, of Macon, state treasurer, were given during the morning session.

All three reports showed conditions in Georgia real estate to be better than ever before in the history of the real estate profession.

Meyer Eisenman, of New Orleans, La., spoke at the morning session on "Selling Methods." Mr. Eisenman, in speaking of real estate in the south, declared that thousands of northern people have come south, not alone as

Seiler Pushed In Endurance Test by Auto

"Flying Yank" Barely Wins Race Against Wills Sainte Claire.

John F. Seiler, the "Flying Yank," champion walker and runner, won a Sainte Claire automobile through the 10-mile running race against a Wills Sainte Claire automobile through the streets of Atlanta Wednesday by a hair's breadth.

It was the second of a series of endurance and speed tests sponsored by The Constitution.

For several blocks during the closing stages of the race the "Flying Yank" led the automobile, when clear traffic enabled it to come almost to the front. Seiler won, however, when a wagon on Peachtree near Houston, blocked the progress of the automobile.

The performance of the Wills Sainte Claire automobile was declared by Seiler to be nothing short of miraculous. The automobile was piloted by E. D. Hines, and was locked in high gear, and the race was made to test the flexibility of the motor.

The test put to the automobile was declared to have been thorough, inasmuch as the route traversed was through the congested section of downtown Atlanta.

At times the car was stopped by traffic lights on some of the steep, east grades in the business district, but the engine did not indicate it was in a strain.

"I have never had a car come so close to beating me as the Wills Sainte Claire," declared Seiler.

PROHI COHORTS PLANNING DEFENSE

House Committee Is Reported To Have Made Changes in Accord With Recommendations.

SENATE PLANNING TO ACT AT ONCE

Measure Proposed by Senator Bingham May Be Passed Before Next Wednesday.

Washington, December 9.—The report of the special house aircraft committee has been changed to include many of the recommendations of Colonel William Mitchell, it is believed, following a special session of the committee Wednesday night.

The house committee report, which is expected to carry considerable weight in the shaping of America's air policy, will be reported to congress within the next few days and, it is believed, will contain a recommendation for the creation of a national department of defense, which would include the departments of war and navy and the air services.

Changes Accepted. Although Representative Reid, of Illinois, Mitchell's counsel and backer, did not attend Wednesday night's session of the committee, it is understood that many of his recommendations for changes in the report, which would put it more in line with the policies advocated by the outspoken colonel, have been adopted in the report, which, it is believed, virtually is completed.

With such changes, it is thought that Reid will sign the report without further threat of bringing out his own recommendations as a minority report.

The house committee report, as it is believed now written, will precipitate anew the aircraft controversy, this time on the floor of the house.

However, while Representative Hill was speaking optimistically of the committee's work on the tax reduction bill.

SENATE PLANNING AIR BILL ACTION

BY THOMAS L. STOKES. Washington, December 9.—The senate will go into the much-agitated aviation question at once. It will take up as its first important piece of legislation this session the measure of Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, for regulation of commercial aviation by the department of commerce.

Bingham was a member of the president's aircraft board.

Senator Jones, of Washington, chairman of the commerce committee, said Tuesday that his committee would take up the bill Friday, and expected to report it out. He intends to ask consideration by the senate Monday, to which Senator Curtis, of Kansas, republican floor leader, is agreeable.

If the bill gets right of way Monday, Jones said, it should be passed before Wednesday, when the world court debate will begin.

$10,000 Jewel Lost at Home Of Vanderbilt

Police Are Probing Disappearance of Necklace of Mrs. Clark.

New York, December 9.—(AP)—Police were faced with a new society gem mystery today as they sought to solve the disappearance of a $10,000 pearl necklace, the property of Mrs. Charles William Clark, divorced wife of the son of the copper king and former United States senator.

The necklace was lost at a tea given in the home of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., on November 21, but the theft was made public only today.

Mrs. Clark declined to discuss the loss "since it did not occur in my own home."

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., through her secretaries declined to say anything about the loss.

"You know Mrs. Vanderbilt dislikes publicity. I can't help you a bit," reporters were told when an assistant to Mrs. Vanderbilt's secretary was called. The necklace consisted of 75 pearls.

Police went to the Vanderbilt home immediately after the loss had been reported. One version of the incident was that the necklace might have been lost after Mrs. Clark left the Vanderbilt tea. She was not wearing the jewelry but was carrying it wrapped in tissue paper in her bag, one account said.

Mrs. Clark was divorced from: Charles William Clark in Paris in August. She charged non-support. She was Miss Cecelia Tobin, of San Francisco, and was married to Clark in August, 1904, several months after the death of his first wife.

Methodist Report Calls Prohibition Economic Success

Wilson Says Nomination and Defeat of Al Smith Would Have Toned Up Moral Sentiment.

ATTACK ON DRY LAW BRANDED AS UNFAIR

General Renewal of Temperance Education In Churches and Schools Urged by Secretary.

Washington, December 9.—(AP)—More fuel was placed beneath the capital's boiling prohibition pot today when the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church assembled in the Methodist building for its annual two-day gathering.

The meeting, attended by prominent ministers and laymen from all parts of the country, was told by the board's secretary, the Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, that he personally wished "we had let the democrats nominate Al Smith on a wet platform" in the 1924 campaign because John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, who made up the ticket, were "too good to waste on the situation."

It would have been better, he said, to have had "Smith, the wet Tammany heeler," defeated by about 12,000,000 votes, as this would have "toned up a moral sentiment" and been a pronounced decision for enforcement.

Deals Pickett, research secretary, said in his report that, "as an economic measure, prohibition has been

Rum Probe at Ohio University Follows Raid of Dry Agents

Columbus, Ohio, December 9.—(AP) Governor Voe Donahy tonight ordered the board of trustees of Ohio State university to make a "thorough house cleaning" at the university as a result of a raid by the state prohibition department on the home and the arrest of Dabney Horton, a graduate instructor in the English department, on a charge of possessing liquor and paraphernalia to manufacture liquor.

The prohibition inspectors reported finding a 10-gallon still and large quantity of molasses mash for rum in Horton's home.

Governor Donahy not only ordered the board of trustees to dismiss Horton as an instructor but also to investigate reports that other faculty members made a practice of drinking at Horton's home.

Reports of "drinking parties at fraternity houses, university dances and student social gatherings," also were included in the governor's orders for investigation, as well as possibility of communist principles being adhered to by any faculty members. The report of Assistant Prohibition Commissioner S. A. Propst, which the governor transmitted to the board of directors, stated that Horton is in sympathy with the principles of communism.

"He is of the parlor socialist type and has written some for communistic journals," the assistant prohibition commissioner's report said.

Horton was free under $1,000 bond today pending his appearing before a justice of the peace next Monday. Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Propst led the party of five prohibition department agents who made the raid.

The chief executive's orders to investigate reports of drinking parties in Horton's home at which university faculty members participated was prompted by a statement in Mr. Propst's report that Horton had implicated four other professors. "Furthermore, investigate current reports about drinking parties at fraternity houses, university dances and student social gatherings," the governor's order directed.

Both Mr. Horton and his wife, though born and reared in America, according to the Propst report, lost their citizenship during the world war and became subjects of France.

New Tax Reduction Measure Assailed By Two Democrats

Economy Drive Is Nearing Limit, States Coolidge

Budget Message of President Points To Great Tax Reduction as Economy Proof.

Washington, December 9.—The new tax reduction bill came in for its first criticism Wednesday, from two democratic members of the ways and means committee which drafted it, Representatives Hull, of Tennessee, and Rainey, of Illinois.

The attacks of these two members, who voted to report the bill to the house, followed high praise from two other committee members, Representatives Mills, of New York, and Hawley, of Oregon, both republicans. The two democrats, it is evident, will not be able to swing enough of their colleagues with them to make any material change in the bill.

SENATE PLANNING TO CONSIDER BILL

"Ogden Mills Was at Wheel of Mellon Chariot," Declares Rainey in Assailing Measure.

While the house continued to listen to the debate on the bill, which has been limited to next Saturday at 4 o'clock, Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee, made plans for the reception of the measure on the other side of the capital.

He announced that "a committee would take up the bill January 2, and expected to have it ready for the senate, with whatever changes were made, by the middle of the month. He expressed confidence that the bill would pass the senate by March 1.

Senator Smoot said he was satisfied generally with the measure framed by the house. He favors repeal of more so-called "nuisance" levies than the bill affords, if the revenue will stand it. Smoot does not look for any serious opposition from the democrats to the measure.

Urges Higher Surtax. Among other things, Rainey in his speech in the house criticized the surtax rate of 20 per cent as being too low. He favors a higher surtax rate, and advocates use of the money gained by the higher rates to cut off more of the "nuisance" taxes. He said he would not vote for the bill unless there were material changes.

"In framing this bill, every member of the committee but Hull and myself jumped on the Mellon band wagon," Rainey declared.

"Ogden Mills of New York, president of the multi-millionaire association and 'high muck-muck' of finance, was at the wheel of the Mellon chariot. Hawley, of Oregon, official self-starter for the millionaires' association, was aboard the chariot stepping on the gas. Then the gang in the chariot rode in Chairman Green and Garner."

Mills, for his part, said the bill was the best revenue measure presented to the house in 10 years, and described it as the "Christmas gift" of the Coolidge administration and the new congress.

"It will be nothing short of a national calamity if this measure is mutilated or amended in any important particular for political or partisan reasons," he declared.

Hawley praised the bill and said that further reductions would be made when the condition of the treasury permits.

CENTRAL AVENUE SERVICE HALTED

Street railways service on Central avenue was abandoned at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in accordance with the action of city council Monday afternoon. Construction of a new curve at the corner of Capitol avenue and Ormond street will begin Thursday morning in order that Capitol avenue cars may be routed over Ormond and Cherokee avenue to Grant park to carry park-bound traffic formerly served by the Central avenue line. With completion of the new curve, probably Friday, service on the Capitol avenue line will be increased with a car every five minutes during rush hours and every seven and one-half minutes during normal hours, instead of every seven minutes during rush hours and every nine minutes during normal hours as at present. Half of the Capitol avenue cars will continue on to Wayman street, as at present, while the others will turn at Ormond and run on Cherokee to Grant park on trucks formerly used by Central avenue cars at the end of their line. The territory immediately affected by suspension of service includes 12 blocks along Central avenue from

Mitchell to Dodd, one block on Dodd from Central to Pulliam, one block on Bass from Central to Pulliam, two blocks on Pulliam, from Bass to Ormond, and three blocks on Ormond from Pulliam to Capitol.

FAIR SKIES CONTINUE, SAYS VON HERRMANN

Continued fair weather with clear skies and temperature ranging around 55 degrees was forecast for today by C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist. Early Wednesday morning the mercury registered a low mark of 38 degrees, while shortly after noon a high mark of 55 was reached.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN STRUCK BY AUTOS

Police Wednesday night continued a search started earlier in the day for Jim Morrison, said to have been the driver of an automobile which struck Miss Edith Warren, 22, of 22 Plum street, and then ran down a youth whose name call officers had not learned at a late hour Wednesday night.

According to witnesses, the machine hit Miss Warren, who was crossing the street at Marietta and Hunnicutt streets, and later bore down on the boy. The machine careened, recorded and sped on.

Miss Warren was taken to Grady hospital, where several stitches were taken to close a wound in her head. Her arms and legs were lacerated and bruised by the impact of the blow, doctors said.

Hospitals were being watched in an effort to ascertain who the injured boy is and to what extent he was hurt. Officers McKinney and Sibley investigated the accident. The machine was said to have been owned by a large manufacturing firm of Atlanta.

Miss Hazel Roberts, 18 years old, was treated at Grady hospital for injuries received when she was struck by an automobile as she stepped from a street car at Cain and Peachtree streets. The driver of the automobile fled.

LIGHT OPERA BODY REFLECTS OFFICERS

Directors of the Atlanta Municipal Opera association, meeting Wednesday in the office of Charles Howard Chandler, president, reelected all officers and laid plans for a greater and more elaborate season of light opera for 1926.

In addition to President Chandler, officers reelected included Victor H. Kriegerhaber, Fred J. Paxon and Mell R. Wilkinson, vice presidents; Henry W. Davis, treasurer, and Robert S. Parker, secretary.

The directors authorized President Chandler to proceed with plans and to close contracts for the 1926 season. Enthusiasm and unselfish sacrifice of Mr. Chandler, which was largely responsible for the success of the 1925 season, were praised by all directors, and he was assured of full cooperation in whatever he might do for the company.

The season next year will cover eight weeks instead of six as in 1925. Negotiations have already been opened with some of the most famous stars of the operatic stage.

SIMS SANCTIONS DOWNTOWN ROUTE FOR BIG COACHES

Coach service through the heart of Atlanta's business section was inaugurated Wednesday by the Atlanta Coach company following action of Mayor Walter A. Sims in approving action of council granting permission to change routes.

Under the new routing outbound coaches on both the Ansley Park-Morningside and Virginia avenue lines will operate from the terminus at Spring and Mitchell streets over Mitchell street to Broad street, on Broad to Luckie and on Luckie to Spring, from which point they will follow the same routes in effect previous to the change.

Inbound coaches will turn into Luckie street at Spring, and operate over Luckie and Broad streets to Broad and Hunter, then over Hunter and Spring streets to the starting point.

REFORM LEAGUE LEADER SENTENCED TO ATLANTA PEN

Cleveland, December 9.—(AP)—Rev. Albert Sidney Gregg, author, lecturer and head of the American Civic Reform league, was sentenced today to 22 months in Atlanta federal penitentiary and fined $750 by Federal Judge Paul Jones. Gregg was found guilty by a jury last Monday on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails.

MASONS TO PLAY SANTA CLAUS ROLE TO MANY CHILDREN

Atlantans who wish to give some child a merry Christmas in their homes during the holiday season may apply to Dr. Claude Hughes, president of the Atlanta Masonic club, it was announced Wednesday.

A movement for members of the club to play Santa Claus this Christmas to one or more children in the Georgia Children's Home society, was launched Wednesday at the weekly luncheon of the club.

There are 42 little boys and girls in the home. Arthur Norris, of the Norris Candy company, has agreed to furnish candy for children and the woman's auxiliary of the club, composed of Mrs. John M. Cooper, Mrs. W. F. Dykes and Mrs. B. F. Ulmer, has made arrangements for a Christmas tree.

STOLEN GOODS FOUND IN CHURCH BASEMENT

Thieves who had stolen clothing valued at $600 from the W. B. Farmer Pressing club, 600 Gordon street, used the basement of Central Baptist church as a cache for their loot, it was discovered Wednesday morning.

Willard Anderson, janitor of the church, heard the men talking in the basement when he opened the church, but while he was gone for assistance the men escaped through a rear door. Clothes bearing tags of the pressing club were discovered in a corner of the basement.

Robbers secured $17.50 from the cash register of Pete Alexander's clothing store of 17 North Broad street, some time during the night, it was reported Wednesday morning. None of the merchandise was disturbed, however.

Mrs. Rolfe H. Brett reported to police Wednesday that some thieves had entered her office at 703 Candler building and taken her purse, containing $12.50.

SAM TATE TO SPEAK AT CHAMBER MEET

Sam Tate, of Tate, Ga., president of the Georgia Marble company, the largest owner and shipper of marble in the south, will address the service committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Friday at 12:30 o'clock on "The Marble Industry of Georgia."

ILLINOIS MAN NAMED PRESIDENT OF FARM BUREAU

Chicago, December 9.—(AP)—S. H. Thompson, of Quincy, Ill., was elected president of the American Farm Bureau federation on the eighth ballot tonight. It was a victory for the forces advocating a federal export corporation. He defeated O. E. Braefute, of Xenia, Ohio, for three years president of the organization, and E. A. O'Neal, of Montgomery, Ala., the present vice president.

Mr. Thompson for the past three years has been president of the Illinois Farmers' organization, the second largest group in the A. F. B. F. He led the fight against the grain marketing company. The voting showed relatively the same strength for the three candidates for seven ballots, breaking in favor of the Illinois man only when Mr. O'Neal threw his strength to him.

E. A. O'Neal, of Montgomery, Ala., was reelected vice president of the federation by acclamation.

ARCADE BUILDING DECORATED FOR XMAS

The interior of the Peachtree Arcade has been completely decorated by tenants in preparation for the Christmas holidays. The decorations are by far the most beautiful and impressive that have ever been shown in the Arcade at the Yuletide season.

The matter of decorating was handled through the Arcade Cooperative association, membership of which is made up of most of the tenants of the building.

Beginning December 15, arrangements are being made to have Santa Claus visit the Arcade every day at a certain hour for the benefit of children.

GARMENT DRAPING DEMONSTRATION HELD

Demonstrations in draping garments and a discussion in remodeling garments by Mrs. Jessie Warren, past president, assisted by Miss Virginia Burford, featured a meeting of the Woman's Institute Club of Domestic Art in the conference room of M. Rich & Bros. company Wednesday morning.

The club will hold its next meeting on the second Wednesday in January at 10 o'clock in the conference room.

RETAIL CREDIT MEN WILL MEET TONIGHT

Associated Retail Credit Men of Atlanta will hold their monthly meeting at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Henry Grady hotel.

A prize is to be awarded at the meeting for the best essay on "My conception of the duties of a retail credit man." Music will be furnished by Guy Rogers.

NOTED NEGRO TENOR TO SING HERE SOON

Tickets for the Roland Hayes concert which will be given at the auditorium at 8:30 o'clock, December 18, will on sale Monday at Phillips & Crew Piano company and Yates & Milton company, it was announced Wednesday.

Hayes is considered the outstanding negro tenor of the world, and will be accompanied by William Lawrence at the Piano.

A varied program has been prepared, including numbers from Italian, German, French and English masters and several negro spirituals. One-half of the auditorium has been reserved for negroes, who will be given an opportunity to hear him.

A large number of leading Atlanta music lovers will sponsor the concert. Hayes' mother was an ex-slave woman of Georgia. After graduating at Fisk university at Nashville, and after studying music during his college career, he extended his studies in other universities before entering the concert field.

TWO ARE ARRESTED FOR SHOP-LIFTING

Atlanta police Wednesday resumed an offensive begun several days ago against shop-lifters, arresting Miss Annie Mae Hutchins, 32, of 186 East North avenue. Miss Pearl McCampbell, who gave her address as Nashville when she was arrested Friday, was bound over to state courts on charges of shop-lifting. Both the women were apprehended in downtown department stores and are alleged to have been in the act of taking goods from counters while Christmas shoppers crowded the stores.

Miss McCampbell's bond was set at $200 pending hearing of the case. Detective Gresham searched her room at a downtown hotel and claims to have uncovered goods valued at about $50, which it is claimed were stolen from Atlanta stores.

Detectives Young and Poole arrested Miss Hutchins, who is alleged to have had goods valued at $40 concealed on her person.

MRS. J. D. NIPPER DIES AT RESIDENCE HERE

Mrs. J. D. Nipper, well-known and pioneer Atlanta woman, died Wednesday at the home, 131 South Ashby street. Mrs. Nipper was an active worker in Park Street Methodist church, where she had long been a member. Before marriage she was Miss Antoinette Dozier.

ARMY TO ABANDON CHRISTMAS KETTLES

Salvation Army "kettles," used by that organization before the advent of the Community Chest to obtain funds with which to supply the poor of the city with a Christmas dinner, will not be used this year, it was decided at a meeting of officials of the army and chest Tuesday, it became known Wednesday. Although the full quota asked by the Community Chest has not been raised, it was announced that funds for the big dinner would be found "some way" without a public appeal for assistance. Participants of the Community Chest promise not to make a public appeal for additional help, and army heads Tuesday promised they would not violate this agreement.

NEW U.S. JUDGE FOR GEORGIA URGED

Washington, December 9.—(AP)—Upwards of a score of recommendations for strengthening the hand of the law were placed before President Coolidge and congress Wednesday by Attorney General Sargent and his assistants in the annual report of the department of justice.

Among other things, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, asked for heavier penalties for prohibition law violators, a general overhauling of the statutes dealing with rum smuggling, and an increase in legal and judicial personnel to expedite the handling of liquor cases generally.

The attorney general himself recommended longer terms for grand juries, better pay for district attorneys, additional federal judges, and several other legislative changes to make legal actions easier.

He made no direct reference to prohibition, but incorporated in his report without comment the findings of the conference of senior circuit judges condemning excessive use of conspiracy charges in litigation of the class embracing prohibition offenses.

Various phases of enforcement were discussed by Mrs. Willebrandt, although she did not touch on the recent reorganization of the treasury's enforcement staff. She declared that despite an insistent effort to expedite action in prohibition cases, the number of such cases pending increased from 22,380 on June 30, 1924, to 25,334 on the same date in 1925.

The number of criminal liquor cases terminated during this 12 months period was 48,724, and included 39,072 convictions.

Of the 39 foreign vessels seized during the year, 28 were British, 4 French, 2 Honduran, 2 Norwegian, 1 Italian, 1 Cuban and 1 Costa Rican. Seizures of American craft totaled 753.

The recommendations of the senior circuit judges that congress authorize appointment of additional federal judges in New York, Connecticut, Maryland, Georgia and Pennsylvania, announced last June, was quoted by the attorney general with the comment that "I concur in these recommendations."

COOLIDGE FAVORS REAPPORTION PLAN

Washington, December 9.—(AP)—Administration support was indicated today for a move in the present congress to reapportion the membership of the house in accordance with the 1920 census.

Representative McLeod, of Michigan, ranking republican on the house census committee, which will have original jurisdiction if the matter is taken up, said after a conference with the white house today that President Coolidge considered such action advisable.

Mr. Coolidge was represented as being of the opinion that the house should take steps immediately to carry out a reapportionment, as provided under the constitution, but made clear it was a duty imposed solely upon the house itself and that he had no authority in the matter.

As ranking member of the committee, Mr. McLeod said he intended to sponsor a move to carry out a reapportionment without changing the present house membership of 435.

Under the 1920 census this would require nine states to surrender one seat each, and another state, Missouri, two seats. The nine states would be: Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Louisiana.

Such a reapportionment, he estimated, would increase the representation from California by three, from Michigan, Ohio and Texas, two each, and from Massachusetts and New Jersey, one each.

Alleged 'Fixing' Of Rhinelander Jury Is Probed

White Plains, N. Y., December 9.—(AP)—Interest in the Rhinelander marriage annulment case, which had subsided following the jury's verdict last week favorable to Leonard Kip Rhinelander's mulatto wife, was revived today when Supreme Court Justice Morschauser ordered a grand jury investigation of alleged tampering with the jury.

The investigation was ordered after Frederick C. Sanford, one of the jurors who heard the case, had reported that he had been approached by three citizens of Yonkers during the trial. One of these citizens whom he named to Justice Morschauser as having discussed the case with him was Dr. James C. Bennett, an eye specialist of Yonkers.

Both Dr. Bennett and Sanford were subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury tomorrow, when it is to begin its investigation.

Justice Morschauser, in ordering the investigation, said "I want to do something to deter others from following this man's example if it is true he really did this."

Sanford said that none of the persons who talked with him about the case had spoken in favor of Rhinelander or his wife, nor was he urged to vote either way. He said he could not recall the names of the other two persons whom he represented as having discussed the case with him.

Isaac N. Mills, attorney for Rhinelander, said today that he would submit a brief, 20 pages in length, to the court Friday. The brief will embody his argument to have the verdict of the jury in the annulment suit set aside on the ground that it was contrary to the weight of evidence.

Mills' statement, concerning the jury tampering charges Judge Mills said:

"I do not see why we could take any action. According to the report as I get it, the gentleman, in what he said, favored the plaintiff. If the plaintiff had won, the other side might have made an exception to the verdict, but the case is reversed."

"I have never heard of Dr. Bennett myself, and we had no investigators working in Yonkers, and of course we knew nothing whatever about any attempt to influence this juror, if such an attempt was actually made."

FAIRBURN VOTES LOCAL SCHOOL TAX

Fairburn, Ga., December 9.—(Special.)—A local tax was voted here today by a vote of 164 to 22 for the recently enlarged school district of Fairburn.

The new school district was recently created by the Campbell county board of education and the election today means that the state funds will be supplemented by a city fund.

LIBMAN ARRESTED ON FORGERY CHARGE

Dr. Lieberman, who was arrested here, according to dispatches received here, and is making preparations to fight extradition to Georgia through habeas corpus proceedings. If held for Georgia authorities an officer will be sent for him, it was stated at the solicitor's office.

The checks are said to have been written in 1922, and drawn on a joint account held by the doctor and his wife.

DR. LIEBMAN NOT MEMBER OF FACULTY.

Augusta, Ga., December 9.—(AP)—Dr. Jay S. Lieberman, held for forgery in Los Angeles, Cal., graduated from the medical department of the University of Georgia, in 1911, but was never a member of the faculty of the medical college, it was learned here tonight from the University hospital, which is affiliated with the medical college.

Dr. Lieberman, it was stated at the hospital, is listed in the record of the American Medical association as having offices in the Healey building, in Atlanta, Ga.

Reports of Officers.

Report by J. Clay Murphy, of Macon, chairman of the advertising committee; G. A. Mercer, of Savannah, chairman of the federal inheritance tax committee, and Ward Wright, of Atlanta, chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee, were heard during the morning session.

While the men attended the business session, women attending the convention were entertained with an automobile ride to Stone Mountain and other points of interest.

Election of officers and selection of the next convention city will hold the attention of the convention just before adjournment this afternoon. Several addresses are scheduled for the morning session today, among these being an address by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, on "The Farm Situation."

referred to the Georgia Real Estate board as "one of the greatest powers for the development of the state."

"Members of the local boards are just like one big family today," Mr. Cooper said, "where before each real estate operator was a power to himself. No one sought to check him up in his deals, some of which were of a shady nature, and the profession fell into disrepute."

"Today all of that is changed and I am proud to say the change has come materially from within the profession itself. Decent men saw the abuses and determined to correct them. The abuses have been corrected to a large extent and today there is a fraternal feeling among real estate men which makes them pull together for the mutual benefit of both the realtor and the client, both seller and purchaser."

"The south is on the threshold of the greatest era of prosperity it has ever seen, or any other section has ever seen," he said. "We have every known natural resource, and the time has come when industries are moving our way."

The first day's session of the real estate convention was pronounced one of the most successful that has ever been held in the history of the organization.

Every officer of the organization was prepared with his part, and the program went forward without a hitch. Features of the convention were reports of committees, reports of the secretary and treasurer, all of which were unanimously accepted by the assembly.

The afternoon session was featured by an address by Clyde Nelson, of Birmingham, on "Subdivisions," and another special talk by Robert Troutman, Atlanta lawyer, on the recently adopted Georgia real estate license law.

Announcement was made that sessions will be held today both morning and afternoon and that the convention will come to a close with the afternoon session to be held in the Ansley hotel. A luncheon will be given to the local and visiting members of the real estate fraternity at 12:30 today, after which a business session will be held.

MITCHELL RAPPED FOR WORLD WAR ORDERS

from Rath that American aviators had been warned that anti-aircraft gunfire around Metz was particularly effective and that he and others, as a result, had not flown near Metz.

Rath testified upon this as indicative that Rath "was afraid."

He testified that the American fliers accomplished little or nothing during the San Mihiel offensive when they were under command of Mitchell and that aviators protested against orders issued by Mitchell or known of by him, to fly in stormy weather.

General Patrick took further issue with Mitchell. He testified that during the past three years approximately 1,000,000 miles have been flown over airways with no fatalities and that practically all the planes used were De Havillands. He denied as Mitchell charged that the army and navy had "fixed" the Pulitzer air races, as to which would win.

General Patrick will continue his testimony Thursday.

VICTORY IS WON BY MITCHELL

the senate is expected to open up the whole controversial subject, upon which there are so many diverse views. Democrats are talking of making ing a unified air service one of the principal points of their program this session, and while they will not force the question at this time, it is very likely that some of the leaders will take advantage of this opportunity to stir up the issue. The administration, of course, is flatly opposed to a unified air service advocated so unanimously by Colonel Mitchell, and democrats are not unanimous in favoring the radical change.

The senate has twice passed a measure similar in many respects to the Bingham bill, but the house never acted upon it in the house.

The present measure goes part of the way in carrying out the recommendations of the president's air-craft board. It provides for regulation by the secretary of commerce. Regulation has been urged a ways by aviation experts as the very first step in development of commercial aviation.

The senate may again pass this measure as a first step, a preliminary move, or it may take the occasion to so amend the Bingham bill as to set up the machinery advocated by the aircraft board, which recommended an assistant secretary of aviation in the war, navy and commerce departments.

Changes Are Urged.

This measure takes a step in that direction, in urging that the national advisory committee for aeronautics be transferred from the navy to the commerce departments, and that three additional members be appointed as chairmen of the committee, each an assistant secretary from the three departments, war, navy and commerce.

The Bingham bill makes the secretary of commerce sponsor of commercial aviation development. It provides for inspection of airplanes, establishment of air lines, landing fields and airports, for continuous investigation to determine the best means of development, licensing of pilots, registration of aircraft, and penalties for violations, giving the secretary authority to revoke licenses in case of violation.

The bill also provides for an aeronautical weather service, advocated strongly since the Shenandoah disaster.

There has long been a companion measure pending in the house, drafted by former Representative Winslow, of Massachusetts. It is expected that it will be pushed this session.

Latest Developments Seen As Good Indication of Early Settlement of Coal Strike

Committee of Business Men Extremely Anxious For Peace in Anthracite Coal Regions.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 9.—Rumors swept the state Wednesday to the effect that the anthracite strike had been settled. The tenacious in Philadelphia, where these rumors emanated, did not bear out the story, but lent strength to a belief that the strike was nearer an end than at any time since the unsuccessful negotiations in Atlantic City last summer. Four major forces are now involved in the strike and the attempts to settle it and these four were all significantly involved in the new developments of Wednesday. These elements are:

Governor Pinchot, who has advanced a formal plan to end the strike and to serve as a basis of negotiations.

Anxious for Peace.

A committee of business men from the anthracite region, most of them from Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, who have been hard hit by the suspension, who conferred with Pinchot Tuesday at Harrisburg and who conferred here Wednesday with representatives of both operators and miners. This committee is extremely anxious for peace in the hard coal fields.

The miners, who have accepted the Pinchot proposals.

The operators, who have rejected it.

Perhaps the most significant development of the day came when the business men's committee, after conferring with the two sides, suddenly cancelled its plans to return to Scranton late in the afternoon and stayed right here. The reasons for this change were kept in mystery, which led the whole thing to be regarded as pregnant with possibilities.

No Statement Made.

It will be recalled that on Tuesday it was expected that the committee, after its conference with Pinchot, was expected to issue a statement blaming the serious prolongation of the strike on the uncompromising attitude of the operators. If they had done this, they would only have followed the leads taken by Pinchot, the miners and Father Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, the catholic priest who tried to settle the strike.

But the committee failed to take this action and instead came to Philadelphia for its conference of Wednesday. It is reported, but nowhere confirmed, that both Major W. W. Inglis, leader of the operators, and one of the highest officials of the United Mine Workers attended these highly secret conferences.

May Present Ultimatum.

One supposition is that the committee decided in Harrisburg to lay down some sort of an ultimatum to the operators, demanding that they recede from their position under pain of being branded on all sides as carrying the full burden of responsibility for the anthracite tieup and the resultant shortage and suffering in the east. Whether such an attitude would have had any effect on the operators or whether it was even expressed, can only be guessed, but one of the other devices of the committee was to demand that the business men be in-duced at failure to resume work in the mines.

On the other hand, reports from Harrisburg said the committee had advised Pinchot to scrap his original plan and to try to effect a settlement by some other device.

One of the members of the committee said Wednesday afternoon that "progress" had been made, but that is the only word that has come from anyone since Wednesday noon.

Meanwhile Governor Pinchot was standing by in Harrisburg, waiting for any important word that might come. He had cancelled a speaking engagement for the evening in order to be prepared for anything that might develop.

HOLDER SAYS STATE WILL MATCH BONDS

Counties which have issued bonds for highway building need fear no delay from inability of the state to match their funds, according to Chairman John N. Holder, of the state highway board, who issued a statement to this effect Wednesday. Mr. Holder added that all pledges made by the state highway commission to various counties for new state highway construction would be carried out. Chairman Holder made it plain that he would not have funds to "match" this year and are spending, or have spent, the proceeds on projects long approved by the state highway board. Counties which should not be included in lists of those purported to have recently issued the bonds, in reality issued them either last year or early this year and are spending, or have spent, the proceeds on projects long approved by the state highway board. Counties which should not be included in lists of those purported to have recently issued the bonds, in reality issued them either last year or early this year and are spending, or have spent, the proceeds on projects long approved by the state highway board.

Anti-Vice Crusade Will Be Launched By Civic League

Active steps in a vice crusade by the South Side Civic league will be taken today in the launching of a drive against social evils. Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the league, announced Wednesday night.

Headquarters for the campaign have been established in a tent at Fair and Washington streets, and Mrs. W. A. Dancy, prominent of work and an evangelist, is to conduct a series of services, Mrs. Andrews said.

"We intend cleaning up vice in our section," Mrs. Andrews declared on the eve of the drive. "The league, together with representatives of other women's civic organizations, has been studying vice conditions with the aid of the police. We are attending sessions of police court and the state court, and are making a thorough study of crime."

W. F. BARRON HEADS MASON'S OF ROME

Rome, Ga., December 9.—(Special.) W. F. Barron was named as worshipful master of Oostanaula lodge of Masons last night at the annual election of officers; W. B. J. Floyd was elected as senior warden, and Robert H. Power as junior warden. The officers elected and those appointed last night were immediately installed by Past Masters W. H. Foster and O. L. Dempsey, and the lodge is ready to go forward with the 1926 program.

Other officers elected were: Wyatt Foster, treasurer; G. T. Ward, secretary; finance committee, John Bale, O. R. Minnis, H. P. O'Rear. The following officers were appointed: J. C. Elson, senior deacon; C. E. Reed, junior deacon; B. F. Copeland, senior steward; Charles Hampton, junior steward; S. Mims Morrison, third steward; W. J. Treadway, tiler.

Mr. Barron will appoint a chaplain at the first meeting in January.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.

Rome, Ga., December 9.—(Special.) The American Legion auxiliary held its final meeting for the first year of its existence yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lewis Shahan. Members decided to give $25 toward the community Christmas tree, also to send $25 to the state rehabilitation chairman to help the former soldiers in hospitals.

The work of the year by the auxiliary has been splendid, and very successful.

The annual meeting of the Shantlin-Attaway post, American legion, is to be held Monday night at the Carnegie library, and it is expected the largest attendance of the year is to be present. Officers for the coming year are to be elected, and an interesting program has been arranged. The election of officers will be the only business on the program.

MARTIN OPPOSED TO HORSE RACING, PASTOR DECLARES

Tampa, Fla., December 9.—Governor John W. Martin will not grant a race track while he is governor of Florida. This statement was made on the floor of the Florida Baptist convention here by Dr. J. C. Adcock, of Orlando, after Dr. Len G. Broughton, of Jacksonville, noted Baptist minister, had concluded a talk on state missions in which he bitterly arraigned horse race gambling in Florida.

Governor Martin's statement was made during a conversation in the governor's private office last January between Dr. Adcock and the governor, the former said.

SCHOOLS CLOSE SEVENTEEN DAYS FOR CHRISTMAS

A 17 days' absence from the classroom and the study of "reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic" will be enjoyed by more than 45,000 school children this Christmas season, according to bulletins sent out to schools Wednesday.

Schools are to close for the holidays one week from next Friday, December 18, and classes are to be reassembled on the Monday following New Year's day, or January 4. This is one of the longest periods of recreation enjoyed by children at the yuletide season in a number of years.

England Not "Done" Says London Press, Answering Harvey

London, December 9.—England will be on the job doing profitable business long after the men who think she is on the road to ruin are dead, according to the Daily Express.

Commenting on George Harvey's article in The North American Review in which the former ambassador sees little but trouble in store for England, The Express says:

"Mr. Harvey thinks England is done, but he is mistaken.

"Julius Caesar started it in 55 B. C., when he came here. He wrote to Rome, 'England is done,' but where is Julius Caesar?"

SEILER IS PUSHED IN ENDURANCE TEST

Sainte Claire," said Seiler. "It was really the first time I was ever pushed to exert every atom of my energy to win the race."

During the course of his race, Seiler, pursuant to his custom, drank several bottles of Coca-Cola.

The next race between Seiler and the Wills Sainte Claire automobile will be staged Friday afternoon, and will be held under the same principles as the race Wednesday, except that the distance will be 25 miles.

The race started Tuesday, as in all races scheduled during this series, will begin in front of The Constitution building and end at Loew's Grand.

Feet Badly Blistered.

His feet blistered by his victory in the 50-mile endurance test Monday, Sainte Claire," said Seiler. "It was relief by careful attention and the application of liniments prepared by the Cox Prescription shop. His foot soreness, he said, had been relieved greatly by this treatment after both of his races."

As was the case in his race Monday, Seiler wore shoes presented him by the Stewart Shoe company, which he declared, preserved his feet better than any he has ever worn.

Vaughan's cafeteria is preparing the special diets ordered by Seiler for his almost superhuman endurance and speed tests.

During the Wednesday race the Wills Sainte Claire automobile at no time made a speed greater than 20 miles an hour. The machine also was required to observe all traffic signals while Seiler was permitted to ignore these signs.

Seiler will rest today, and Friday will put on the last of his events in Atlanta. He will pit himself against the Wills Sainte Claire in a 25-mile competition which will begin in front of The Constitution offices, and end in front of Loew's Grand.

Friday week, Seiler will perform what is declared to be his most marvelous contest when he begins a 70-mile race against a Wills Sainte Claire automobile at Athens en route to Atlanta.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE OPENS AT SUMMERVILLE

Summerville, S. C., December 9.—(Special.)—The South Carolina conference A. M. E. convened in Summerville today. Bishop W. W. Beckett, who has been holding conferences for six weeks, is presiding. The sectional service was a feature of the opening.

Rev. P. C. Ligon, C. J. Bynum and J. B. Jennings were elected secretaries. Rev. W. M. Mance offered a motion that the bishop appoint all committees not otherwise provided for. Three men were appointed to the body.

Editor J. D. Barndale, of Kansas City; D. M. Baxter, of the Book Concern, Philadelphia; D. E. Sims, of Atlanta university, Columbia; Presiding Elder E. J. Miles, Rev. A. J. Jones, New York; Rev. R. E. Secretary E. H. Coit, missionary department, Rhode Island; New York; Rev. R. E. Secretary of the W. H. and F. M. society, were presented to the conference.

Dr. P. J. Davis, pastor of Emanuel church, Charleston, reported $1,013 for general claims. Presiding Elder M. A. Hollins, Edisto district, lead the conference in his reports, also J. H. Chestnut, of Beaufort district, R. B. Lawrence, Aiken district, reported.

Presiding Elder T. B. Nelson died two weeks ago, which caused the bishop to request A. P. R. Henry, who is his elder. Bishop Beckett said the opening prayer today, which touched every person present as he mentioned President Coolidge and congress in session and the lawmakers of the country. The bishop referred to the good will, peace and happiness which should prevail between the two races in this country and that good would bring out the best for all concerned.

Bishop Robert. Rodolph, of the Reformed Episcopal church of America, and Bishop J. Albert Johnson were presented to the body.

A unique 10 minutes' program of the prominent Christian negro women of the conference commended Bishop Beckett for his return to the diocese of South Carolina and prayed him to extend and build up the church of God for the great benefit making better the negro masses of our section. The program was impressive.

Many the most prominent negro leaders of the race are present.

Covington, Ga., December 9.—(Special.)—Covington high opened the basketball season Tuesday by defeating the fast Locust Grove Institute team by the score of 17 to 15. The feature of the game was great playing of the entire Covington team with Casting Guest leading the attack. With the score tied, 15 to 15, Martin put the finishing touch to the game with a long pot from center. For Locust Grove, Mobly played best.

The famous Sorrel Top showed only a pale pink Wednesday, as his Chicago Bears went down to defeat before the Bears' Steam Rollers by a score of 9 to 6.

With Don Miller and Jim Crowley, two of the former famous "four horsemen" of the "Red" line, the professionals from Chicago were soundly beaten, and the Wheaton line looked like a cake of his own ice.

Grange could not win against the Steam Roller line, and his passes were futile, either failing to earth uncaptured, or intercepted by alert young Providence.

The Bears did not score until the fourth period, after "Red" had been taken out of the game.

At this point of view, Grange seems to be more interesting to those who are following Grange's progress than the football point.

Rollers scored a safety in this period and added a touchdown in the second quarter when Garvey, Providence left end, snatched up a loose ball and ran 30 yards.

Miller and Crowley starred, their work completely overshadowing that of Grange.

It was Grange's substitute, Bryant who showed up the ice-man by running 25 yards for the Bears' lone touchdown.

Miss Harris Weds Mr. Scruggs At Beautiful Home Ceremony

One of the most beautiful of the pre-holiday weddings was that of Miss Aileen Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Harris, and Edward de Leon Scruggs, of Brewton, Alabama, which was solemnized on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Fourteenth street. Exquisite beauty marked every detail of the lovely home ceremony, which was performed by the Right Rev. James W. Morton, of the Sacred Heart church, who added impressiveness to the lovely scene by the wearing of the beautiful and sacred priestly robes of the Catholic church. Appropriate music was rendered by an orchestra, during the assembling of the guests, followed by the playing of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" at the entrance of the wedding party.

Handsome Decorations.
The spacious reception room, at the left of the entrance hall, where the ceremony was performed, was transformed to resemble a cathedral altar with its three seven-branched brass candelabra burning white tapers, kneeling stool covered with white satin and effective chancel rail. On either side were groups of palms, foliage plants and floor baskets of Easter lilies. Lace shades fringed with valley lilies covered the chandelier lights from which extended ropes of hot house smilax to the four corners of the room. Leading to the altar room from the stairway, from which the bridal party descended, were aisle posts festooned with smilax, white satin ribbon and shaggy white chrysanthemums. Throughout the lower floor baskets of huge white chrysanthemums, palms, ferns and richly tinted foliage plants were used in profusion. The wide front porch was inclosed with canvas and banked on either end with tropical plants and vari-colored flowers.

Wedding Party.

First to descend the broad stairway were the bridesmaids, who entered singly with a groomsmen. They were Miss Margaret Scruggs, Miss Ellen Newell, Miss Catherine Raine and Miss Corday Rice. They were charming frocks of orchid georgette crepe made with circular skirts joined to the short bodices by narrow velvet ribbons in delicate pink, lavender and yellow shades. Appliqued velvet flowers in pastel shades adorned the lovely costumes at irregular intervals, while beads in Dresden shapes outlined the flowers. Satin slippers in orchid shade completed the lovely creations and they carried arm bouquets of pink roses showered with orchid sweetpeas.

The groomsmen were Stewart Harris, Chandler Harris, Hugh Nunnally, David Miller, of Brewton, Ala.; Edward MacLovelace, of Brewton, Ala., and Howard Simpson, of New Orleans.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Harris, sister of the bride, entered alone, wearing a gown of shell pink georgette crepe fashioned with short waist and circular skirt. Appliqued velvet flowers in delicate shades also trimmed her gown, while exquisite crystal beads traced the graceful blossoms. She wore pink satin slippers and carried a beaded bouquet of Dresden flowers tied with myriads of silver ribbons.

Preceding the bride was little Miss Willena Zachry, the flower girl. She wore a dainty frock of flesh-colored chiffon fashioned entirely of narrow ruffles piped in silver. An exquisite flower bandeau encircled her hair and she carried a small basket of pastel shaded flowers.

Lovely Bride.

The lovely bride entered with her father, Lucian Harris, by whom she was given in marriage, and was joined at the altar by the groom and his brother, Thomas Richard Scruggs, of Brewton, Ala., who acted as best man.

The bride's exquisite loveliness was

Miss Sara Fisher Will Entertain At Xmas Party

Miss Sara Fisher will entertain at Monday, December 28, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Fisher, at 750 Ponce de Leon avenue, the occasion honoring Miss Mary Wellborn, who will arrive December 18 from Agontz school in Philadelphia to spend the holidays at home.

Several hundred members of the younger social contingent will be invited to meet the attractive honor guest, who will be a popular school girl attending the holiday festivities for the college set.

Miss Barnett To Be Club Hostess.

Miss Mary Barnett will entertain the Atlanta chapter Randolph-Macon Women's College club Friday afternoon, December 11, at 3 o'clock at her home, 970 Piedmont avenue. The feature of the program for the afternoon will be a very interesting reading by Miss Evelyn Lovett of an old miracle play.

Miss Nelson were the attractive pair keeping the bride's book. Assisting in entertaining during the evening were Miss Catherine Haverty, Miss Bessie White, Miss Lila Sadler, Miss Lucy Elizabeth Harper, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Callie Orme, Miss Telsie Pratt, Miss Margaret Elder, Miss Louise Arnold, Miss Edythe Coleman, Miss Elizabeth Whitman, Miss Valeria May, Miss Ethel Hunter, Miss Harriet Shelden, Mrs. Tom Rippy, Miss Sara Hurt, Miss Lakose Wargner, Miss Mildred Camp and Miss Mildred Willford.

Bride's Table.

The bride's table in the dining room was covered with imported lace adorned in the center by a beautifully embroidered wedding cake surrounded by baskets of pink roses alternating with silver candlesticks holding pink tapers ornamented with valley lily sprays. Pink tulip shades covered the chandelier lights, from which fell a shower of valley lilies and narrow pink satin ribbons. Pink candies, favors and small gifts added to the beauty of the table decoration, covers being laid for only the members of the bridal party.

During the evening Mr. Scruggs and his bride left for a wedding journey to the east. The bride wore a modish traveling costume of navy blue flat crepe with an overskirt of rose-colored crepe. A small close fitting hat of rose-colored tulle with navy blue trimmings completed the attractive costume.

Out-of-Town Guests.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gillis, of Brewton, Ala.; Mrs. Peter Vredenburg, of Vredenburg, Ala.; Mrs. E. M. Lovelace, Miss Ann Boyd, Miss Elizabeth Purfoy, Miss Annie Lou Purfoy and Miss Julia Miller, all of Brewton, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Julian Harris, of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. T. S. Frazier, of Brewton.

Woman's Guild Annual Bazar.

The annual bazar of the Woman's guild of All Saints' Episcopal church, was quite successful and over $1,500 dollars was cleared.

One of the features of the bazar was the booth arranged by Mrs. T. T. Dickson and members of her family, which was a surprise to the members of the guild.

The booth was a replica of a country store, which contained everything that a country store would have on sale. Assisting Mrs. Dickson were her daughters, Mrs. L. D. McFarlin, Mrs. D. H. Williams, and her granddaughters, Mrs. O. Taffe and Miss Elsie McFarlin.

Old-fashioned lamps carried out the effect of the country store, and many merchants contributed articles for the store.

Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints', is president of the guild; Mrs. William Hunt is first vice president, and acted as chairman of the bazar committee. Assisting were the heads of the nine chapters, Mrs. Henry Davis, Mrs. Sam Finley and Mrs. Dan Harris, co-chairman; Mrs. Moreland Speer, Mrs. Perrin Nicholson, Jr.; Mrs. Albert Dunn, Deaconess Wood, Mrs. R. F. Sams, Mrs. E. N. O. Belne, Miss Hinton Hopkins and Mrs. Paul Dobbin.

The members of the sewing club include: Mrs. Westerfelt Terhune, Mrs. George McCarty, Jr., Mrs. Floyd McKel, Jr., Mrs. Henry Newman, Mrs. Clarence Harvety, Mrs. Marion Smith, Mrs. Ethelyn Emmons Johnson and Mrs. David C. Black.

Mrs. Rippey's Bridge Party Will Benefit Atlanta Girl.

Mrs. Threshers Ames Rippey has invited her committee composed of about 20 young women together with other friends who have assisted her to meet at her home for tea next Monday afternoon. At this time Mrs. Rippey will give a prize to the one that has sold the most tables, for the benefit bridge of the 15th, at the Atlanta Woman's club. Here we might say that any friend of these young women wanting a table could communicate with their special favorite, at her home, and thus swell her number and increase her chances for winning this prize. In working for the education fund of the art department these girls are making a special contribution for Christmas joy, and in assuming this responsibility are accepting an opportunity to render a beautiful service to an Atlanta girl, of their own age who is studying in New York under the handicap of limited means. Those who are familiar with this young lady's work and talent predict for her a creditable and possibly a brilliant career for the future in her chosen profession in which this committee under Mrs. Rippey may feel a pardonable pride as having had a part in her education.

Reservation of tables may be made through any member of Mrs. Rippey's committee by telephone. While a full report of the tables sold could not be secured Monday this is a partial list and other names will be added as they are reported. The following is the list up to Monday morning: Mesdames Norman Sharpe, Lee Ashcraft, Sterling Elder, Thomas Akridge, Hugh

THE CONSTITUTION'S PATTERNS

A POPULAR STYLE.

For sports wear or walking this natty top garment is very desirable. It takes the place of a sweater or short coat. Jersey, flannel, suede or tweed mixtures, homespun or velvet may be used for its development.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 2-3/4 yards of one material, 40 inches wide, or, to make as illustrated in the large view, will require 2-3/8 yards of one material and 3-8 yard of contrasting material to face collar, hip band and cuff turnovers.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1925-1926 book of fashions.

In ordering patterns, write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and inclose price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 11-13 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA K. FORBES

THE PLAIN GIRL.

There was never a time when fashion so favored the plain girl as now; that is, the girl with nothing out of the ordinary in the way of features, coloring, or figure. Let us fancy a girl who is thoroughly unattractive, nondescript, and see what she can do with herself. Mind, not positively ugly, that's another problem, and ugliness can be made interesting and charming. Our girl must be simply dull, negative. There are thousands like her.

About her hair—it is wispy and fine and won't comb nicely, and is a drab color. Well, she must give it henna shampoo to make it brighter. Three ounces of castile soap and one ounce of powdered henna mixed, will do for several shampoos. The latter must stay on 15 minutes. She must bob her hair, cut with a fringe over the forehead if she is thin, and choose some soft style that will bring the hair over her ears.

Her complexion can be flawless—the result of diet and care. Her lashes and eyebrows can be darkened harmlessly by bringing out her eyes, the brows neatly shaped. Her nose can be pretty—the result of massage and the way she carries her head. Her hands will look passable, even pretty, if well treated and manicured.

Her figure can be made attractive by exercise and by carrying herself correctly. Even corsets can be brought in to improve matters. And incidentally, present day styles hide the figure, or take little account of it. The styles are made for her, for bright colors are much worn and these lend brightness to a dull personality; and the new trick of flares gives movement to a dress and life to a figure. Even the gay new shoes add something light and graceful to the personality of the feet that put them on. Oh, yes, the plain girl has it all her own way this winter.

Rural Teacher.—A mixture of tincture of fishberries and alcohol will kill the vermin; and if that is not convenient to obtain in your locality, common kerosene will do just as well. In either case, soak the hair thoroughly, and tie it up for a few hours—overnight would be best. Shampoo the following day, using several lathers to remove all traces of the treatment.

It may be necessary to repeat the work after a few days, but this is rare. The shells from the eggs that cling to the hair shafts are very hard to remove, so it is sensible to cut off as much of the hair's length as can be spared. The remaining shells can be removed by combing with a fine tooth comb kept wet in vinegar; it also helps to lace the teeth of the comb to bring the teeth closer together.

Miss D. C. S.—You can probably bleach the hair with peroxide so that it will not show through sheer silk stockings.

Tomorrow—Well-Shaped Hands.

Edna Kent Forbes is now ready to fill a long-felt need on the part of her readers—that of supplying the most important of her excellent beauty hints in illustrated pamphlet form. To secure this valuable information you must address Miss Forbes in care of this paper, asking for her pamphlet, "Beauty," and inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in stamps.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED FOR WRECK OF DRAY

B. W. Fanning, 60, operator of a dray business, Wednesday filed suit in Fulton superior court asking $10,000 damages from C. T. Yates, who he charges drove an automobile into his dray on December 4 at Piedmont avenue and East Harris street.

Fanning claimed the machine was making 45 miles an hour at the time of the crash and that the wagon was demolished, the horse hurt, while he was catapulted head first to the pavement, causing him serious and permanent injuries.

The law firm of Hutcheson & Morris and Attorney L. S. Bellinger represent the complainant.

HARVARD FUND BODY READY TO FUNCTION

Cambridge, Mass., December 9.—(AP) The Harvard fund, sponsored by a Harvard fund council organized in 1919, has just been perfected and will begin to function soon. The fund is not supported by campaigns, but is intended as a permanent medium through which graduates may make annual contributions to the university, to be used at the discretion of the president and fellows. Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, is head of the fund council.

Mrs. Kemp Dies at Macon.

Macon, Ga., December 9.—(AP) Mrs. Lillian Shinholzer Kemp, wife of R. L. Kemp, Associated Press operator, died at 10:30 o'clock last night. She was a member of as prominent middle Georgia family.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR D. ERNEST RANDALL

Funeral services for D. Ernest Randall, 48, of 104 Elmwood drive, manager of the art department of the Atlanta Georgian and well known Atlantan, who died Tuesday night at a private hospital, will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning from the home, with H. M. Peterson & Son in charge. Rev. C. E. Bentley will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Before coming to Atlanta Mr. Randall was head of the art departments of the Los Angeles Examiner and the San Francisco Call. He was well known as an artist, having exhibited with John Sargent and had won a first prize at the Metropolitan Academy of Art, in New York.

Mr. Randall executed a bust of Governor John A. Johnson, of Minnesota, and displayed some of his work at the Chicago exposition. He was the inventor of a device to enable airplanes to right themselves when

DEBATE TO FEATURE PROGRAM AT CHURCH

"Resolved, That a man should do more for his mother than for his wife," will be the subject of a debate Tuesday, December 22, at the Antioch Baptist church, 110 Gray street.

The affirmative side of this question will be argued by the Rev. K. Bland and J. H. Hall, and Britt Jackson and B. Kennedy will defend the negative.

Admission will be 10 cents, and the public is invited to attend. Music will be furnished by the senior high quartet.

SOUTH-FRUIT CAKE

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY Early Days In Pennsylvania, by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WILLIAM PENN BUILT HIS CHIEF TOWN WHERE THE SCHUYLKILL FLOWS INTO THE DELAWARE AND CALLED IT PHILADELPHIA, A GREEK WORD MEANING "THE CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE." THE STREETS WERE BROAD AND LINED WITH COMFORTABLE HOMES SET WIDE APART. MANY OF THE HOUSES WERE BUILT OF RED BRICKS. (Copyright 1925 by THE NICHOLS NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE.)

THE INDIANS BECAME TRUE FRIENDS OF THE SETTLERS THROUGH PENN'S KINDNESS TO THEM. HE PAID THEM FOR ALL THE LAND HE ACQUIRED AND AS A RESULT OF A GREAT TREATY HELD AT SHACKAMAXON IN 1683 THERE WAS A CONTINUOUS PEACE.

PENN MADE WISE LAWS FOR HIS COLONY WHICH HE SUBMITTED TO A COUNCIL OF FREE MEN FOR APPROVAL. A FEW YEARS OF PENN'S "FRAME OF GOVERNMENT" LATER, "RELIGIOUS LIBERTY FOR ALL," ANY CHRISTIAN COULD HOLD OFFICE, EVERY TAXPAYER COULD VOTE, AND COLONISTS WERE NOT REQUIRED TO TAKE OATH IN COURT.

PENN RETURNED TO ENGLAND IN 1701 AND NEVER CAME AGAIN TO AMERICA. HE LEFT PENNSYLVANIA PROSPERING AND THE COLONISTS CONTENTED, SAFE FROM INDIAN ALARMS, AND AT PEACE WITH ONE ANOTHER. TOMORROW—THE FOUNDING OF NEW JERSEY.

Uncle Ray's Corner

The Origin of the Alphabet

Is it possible for you to get the first alphabet used in ancient history?—Isaac Schecter, age 14. More than one letter has come to me asking about the first alphabet. The answer is not so simple as might be expected. The alphabet which we use can be traced through the Romans and Greeks, back to the Phoenicians. After that we find it difficult to search out its history.

We do know, however, that the ancient Egyptians used alphabets. These were made up of signs which stood for certain sounds. The sketch of a hand stood for a "h" sound; the outline of a lion stood for an "l" sound. Some of the sound-signs of the Egyptians were used for letters, some for syllables. At different times, the number of signs in Egyptian alphabets changed. People also changed the ways in which they wrote the signs. By trying to write swiftly they made very poor "pictures"—but those same poor sketches came to be part of an easier and quicker form of writing.

The Egyptians had several signs for the letter "a," and more than one sign for some other letters which we use. The Egyptians gave the idea of an alphabet to the world; and at least a few of their letters—much changed—have come down to us.

The Phoenicians and the Jews appear to have taken many of the Egyptian letters, and to have changed them a good deal. People on the island of Crete may also have had something to do with the changing.

At last the Phoenicians were able to teach an alphabet to people they met on their travels. The goods which those sailors traded were not important compared with the alphabet.

bet. They may have used their alphabet only for the sake of business; but that alphabet did much more for the world than the "business."

The way the name of one Pharaoh was written. With all that picture-making, it is any wonder that the Egyptians tried to write swiftly and lost track of the old forms of some of their picture signs?

The Greeks, in particular, wanted to learn about the wonderful sound-signs. They put them into use. The first letter they called "alpha," the second "beta." When spoken together, those letters were "alpha-beta"—and from that has come our word "alphabet."

The Greeks, on their part, changed some of the letters. At first they wrote from right to left; later they wrote from left to right, as we do. The Romans further altered the alphabet, and made their capital letters almost exactly as we make them. Their "I" stood for "i," as well as for "I," however; and their "V" often stood for "U" or "W."

Q.—When was the first government coin minted in the United States, and where?—Billy Mason, age 12. A.—The Pilgrims and other early colonists sometimes used wampum or tobacco as money. The earliest coins used were those minted in England. The first coins were the first important issue of coins in the colonies. They were minted in Massachusetts in 1652, and thereafter. They were called "Pine Tree" because an image of a pine tree was commonly placed on one side. The first United States mint was established at Philadelphia in 1792.

Your Boy and Your Girl

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

The Parent Counsellor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

NO INCOME TAX ON READING. No child is to be forbidden to read what they choose or should they be allowed to follow their inclinations? Will we have them read trash or force them to read only substantial books? Do we believe in these cut-down "Told to Children" books or should they read the book as it was originally written? Can children read a book with any profit when some of the ideas and many of the words pass over their heads?

"What is one man's meat is another's poison," is the old saying and it applies to books as well as other things. No single rule can be laid down. Nor in fact are any originally written? Can children read a book with any profit when some of the ideas and many of the words pass over their heads?

Whenever my mother caught me reading, as a boy, a paper covered book it was burned with the remark, "I've told you never to read a dime novel." To this day I have never reasoned out whether it was the dime or the novel to which she objected. She never questioned E. P. Roe's novel whose nobby-pamphlet devoured like molasses cookies. They had cloth covers.

Sundays I stole into the attic and read hair-raising tales of murder, revenge, robbery, beautiful girls and dastardly villains, dark and hidden secrets and diabolical plots. Many a night in accord with my favorite half-standing story of "Murder at the Inn" I imagined my bed was being lowered to the room below where, as at the inn, wholesale robbery and murder would take place. And yet this story was my favorite.

But Dickens, Scott, Cooper, Balzac, Tolstol, Dumas, Hugo and other noted authors of the day soon claimed me. These books were in "sets" and, of course, in mother's eye they had her O. K. She had no prejudice against reading anything except the "dime novel." I went through the ages of adventure, of trash, of romance, of historical fiction, of Jules Verne's wishy-washy love, of biographies, of "Science" up to and including composing original love sonnets to the ever-daisy of adolescent affection.

I didn't understand all that I read and didn't read all that I could have understood. Perhaps, likely, it is just as well. For Christmas I got a predigested "Made for children" book but thank fortune the rest of the year offered straight fare.

I pity the child who is not interested in any form of reading. I pity the home that has no books except a mailing house catalog. I am sorry for the child that possesses no library card and for a home that has no interest in current events as daily discussed in a good newspaper. My heart goes out to the boy or girl who hears nothing at home but evil gossip, cheap scandal, bickering and dirty talk.

But such homes are few and when they do exist my list of books for children to read will never reach them, as members of such never read this daily column. Gladly will I send without cost beyond a self-addressed, stamped return envelope, if you will address a letter to me, care of this newspaper, a list of 200 splendid books arranged by years for children from two to 16 years.

Your free public library has most of them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. An Old Question.

I am 19 years old. I have a boy friend of whom I think a lot. I think he likes me but we have never gone together, we are just friends. My mother thinks he is a good boy but my father objects. My friend has often wanted to take me to dances but I would not go as my father objects and I very seldom go to dances. He has asked me to go since he found my father objects to him. He is good looking and very polite. He works steadily and hard and gets good pay.

I have never gone with but three fellows, but since going with this young man I don't care for any other. Should I go with him or should I do as my father says? (G. E.) Answer.—The eternal conflict; the one who does not recognize that you are today like to go out as much as the girls of yesterday. He forgets that he once went with girls and he certainly could not have gone with them if their parents had objected. You are old enough to have the privileges of young manhood. Not the least of these is the right to choose a girl who trusts you to do what is right. Of course, your father may have something against the young man, but as I understand it he would be against your keeping company with any young man.

CLAMS AND SALADS BY Louise Dooly

WHAT does the future offer men? That was the text a clever woman suggested to us recently, and we like it so well that we invited her to furnish likewise the work-out. But she skirted, for the same reason we'd like to.

She said she hadn't done her Christmas shopping. IT'S a subject, this problem about men, that would take deep thought, exhaustive research, to find any worthwhile solution. Exclusive opportunities for men are dwindling so fast that we foresee the time not far distant when they will have to organize to fight for equality with the women—equal pay for equal work, and such like.

It is some comfort to those of us women who see the situation with a genuine sympathy, that there will always be a few exclusive vocations in business, in industry, in the man who years for economic independence.

A FEW OPENINGS. FOR instance, the man who has just seen an all-male show, which, in the approved eloquence of the boards today, was a wow.

Not a girl in it, yet Will Rogers and the de Reszke singers kept a houseful of people after 11 o'clock crying for more.

But how many Will Rogerses are there? and how many de Reszke quartets? Did you notice this, though? The humorist picked mostly on his own sex to get his laughs? His wisest quip was Ma Ferguson.

The inferiority complex of the male thus shows itself in a certain sort of pride. If "we men must stand back for the women's march of progress" is the male attitude, then we are not going to appear to curvy favor with the conquering hosts by including the women in our idea of what is funny.

AN EXTREME CONSERVATIVE. OR, maybe, it isn't all as deep as that. Maybe it is just that Will Rogers is what you'd have to call a hopeless reactionary. He admitted that, after living two years—was it not?—in Hollywood, and working in the movies, he came out married to the same wife he took in with him. He dates with the greatest of them, after exhausting the counsel of the doctors and wise men, "came out by that same door wherein I went."

SERENADES TO EFFICIENCY? TRUE, the singers—possibly you observed that, too—did mighty little singing to their lady's eyebrow. But the men who sang were kept a face they can on the rapid subjugation of their sex. Anyway, what man, what male quartet, can sing convincingly of moonlight and the scent of mimosa to female efficiency?

Personally we are rather glad of the change in the average repertoire of a quartet. It's all right and convincing when four men together sing a sea chanty, or a negro spiritual. It's all right, and can be convincing,

But with the increasing number of women who are living on their own in hotels and traveling alone or with other women, the bell-boy profession, to increase its profits in proportion to the increase in this type of clientele, will have to do a lot of educational work.

Women, with all their progress, have not learned how to tip. There is no particularly top-loty motive in their reluctance. It isn't that they stop to think that they are contributing to a system which sullies what ought to be the dignity of labor.

It's just a pugnacious stand against what they consider paying a second time for the service they imply is included also in the bill.

An indication that it is with them not the loftier motive lies in the fact that when they travel much and want comfort they learn to tip. And they have to tip more liberally, or at least more cleverly than men, because they have got to wear down the suspicion that they are not going to tip.

WE'D STRIVE TO PLEASE. TO make a really adequate survey of the narrowing field of opportunities in which men may hope, in the rather cloudy future, to hold their own in spite of their sex, would be, as we remarked at the start, a real job. As we commented also in an aside, we haven't done our Christmas shopping early.

Moreover, did you ever hear of a survey that didn't have to be financed? And nobody has offered to finance us.

We are glad to put ourself thus first in the field, however, with this little preliminary study. The men sooner or later will have to organize, and the sort of suggestions we have been able to make in this department today we could work into attractive brochures for their publicity propaganda. (Adv.)

Just as a hint of how insecure the male situation is, and as a friendly urge that the men ought to get together and do something about it, there is one dramatic circumstance that ought to be more telling than all the listing of women bankers, women lawyers, women doctors, women executives in business, indeed, the whole female monopoly of things.

And that circumstance is—did you ever stop to think of it—that even Man-o-War was retired several years ago.

Another Splendid School Now Being Planned For Hollywood by-the-Sea FLORIDA

Hollywood's north and south hill and ranch sections now have 800 school children. A magnificent 28-room school building to cost $300,000 is planned for early construction. In addition to the parent-owned autos used by these pupils, HOLLYWOOD furnishes five of its immense autobuses for their transportation.

Hardly any other city in history compares with Hollywood for quick, solid growth, and this charming city's rise from a Florida open space to a fledgling cityhood, with a population of 8,000, in four years, is due to the work, vision and faith of those who have become owners of Hollywood realty—owners, boosters, builders.

HOLLYWOOD enters its fifth year of inspired growth with its realty values established and rising at a pace that shows no abatement. The season of 1925-26 will see a rush of realty buyers that will dwarf all precedents. Hollywood offers many attractive investment opportunities, the choicest of which are, naturally, being picked up daily. If you are interested in our offerings and cannot avail yourself of the wonderful trip we provide, it will be to your advantage to see our local office TODAY.

Hollywood now has a tent city right at old ocean's edge. Romantic, delightful housing of 1,600. One, two, three or four-room tents. Every facility for domesticity.

When you drive with old oil your car lacks power

THE reason oil is put in your crank-case is to prevent friction between the rapidly moving parts of your engine. Friction means both loss of power and injury to your car.

In time, all oil becomes thinned out by gasoline dilution and contaminated by road dust and particles of metal worn off your engine.

You can readily see how vital it is that your engine should always be properly lubricated and how injurious the contrary is to your car's health and efficiency.

Every 500 miles you should have the old oil drained from your crank-case and the crank-case flushed and refilled with fresh, good oil.

This crank-case service takes but fifteen minutes at a Pan-Am Service Station, and there is no charge except for the oil used.

There is a proper grade of Pan-Am Motor Oil for each type of engine (see the Pan-Am chart), and it is heat-resisting, long-wearing oil that will do all that oil can to keep your car at its highest efficiency.

Remember, every 500 miles, at a Pan-Am Service Station. PAN-AMERICAN SOUTHERN PETROLEUM COMPANY.
